

CHAMBER POSTERS
NEW ENTERPRISESThree Companies Launched and Other Projects Are Under Investigation.

Three new business enterprises in which Washington men are the prime movers, or local concerns are involved, came to public notice today.

In the further development of the commercial features of this city, three new business projects, in which the Washington Chamber of Commerce is interested, are among the possibilities for the future.

A large company to manufacture firearms in the District of Columbia to be known as the Liberty Cartridge Company, has just been incorporated. It is to have a capital of $500,000. Edgar M. Funk is the president, and Miles Taylor secretary and treasurer.

Ganter Heads Firm.

F. X. Ganter, of this city and Baltimore, has organized a corporation known as the F. X. Ganter Company, for the manufacture of bank and store fixtures, etc., with a capital of $300,000. F. X. Ganter now has an establishment at 906 Pennsylvania avenue, manufacturing billiard and pool tables. The incorporators of the new company are Francis X. Ganter, president of the Crystal Showcase and Mirror Company, of Baltimore; Charles W. Ganter, treasurer of the same company, and Henry A. Ulrich.

The third organization will be a new steam laundry, with building and plant, in this city. It will be known as the Federal Laundry Company. The incorporators have organized with W. J. Peck, 311 I street northwest; P. C. Getzenbender, 1700 L street northwest; W. V. Foulkner, of Evans, Benson & Foulkner, 145 G street northwest, and others.

After Branch Plants.

The Chamber of Commerce has recently been in communication with two concerns which it is urging to establish their large branch plants in this city. One of these is a manufacturing furniture house, employing about 150 hands. The other is a manufacturer of overalls and similar goods, and would build an extensive establishment.

The third enterprise being considered by the chamber is the project of a manufacturer of Lynchburg, Va., and the manufacturers' committee of the chamber has been asked to give its endorsement to the location of the business in Washington. The committee, not wishing either to endorse or withhold its endorsement without investigation, will send a representative to Lynchburg to make an investigation. The sum of $200 was recently appropriated by the chamber to defray expenses of investigation, manufacturing enterprises with a view to ascertaining the desirability of their location in Washington.

COURTEOUS SOUTH
OUTDONE BY TAFT

his automobile all the way, hat in hand, as he acknowledged the plaudits of the thousands. Nevertheless Taft will not carry Tennessee. He himself does not expect to do it. One of the prominent Republicans of Chattanooga told me today that sixty days ago the Republicans had a chance to win, but the terrible factional fight between the Brownlow and Evans wings of the party had made it impossible. "One is led by Representative Walter P. Brownlow and the other by H. Clay Evans, national committee man, who presided at the meeting this morning."

However, Taft is satisfied, he says, to do his part toward causing that reawakening of the South which in not so very many years will give the Republicans an even chance with the Democrats in this section of the country. That he did his share in the movement was amply demonstrated here today. In the State made famous by the verbose oratory of John Wesley Gait, and the popping rifles of the moonshiners, he left the people much food for thought. Incidentally, he convinced them that he is a pretty good fellow on the stump and in social intercourse.

From here he goes to Knoxville, where he will make a speech at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Between here and Knoxville he will make brief stops at Athens, Sweetwater, Loudon, and Lenoir City, all of them small towns.

Panama Case.

not do business that way and later on, reported that I was afraid the machine would not do the work, we wanted."

Attorney Thomas wanted to know why Strickler had written but one name and that of Hunt and if it was not for the reason that Strickler and Averill had been friends of many years standing. The witness declared it was not the reason, while Col. G. W. Goethals, lighted a new cigarette and nodded his head in approval.

Ready to Talk.

When A. M. Lawson was sworn by General Garlington, he said he was ready to tell all he knew about circular 414, which advertised for machinery that would remove dirt from the Panama canal.

"Give me a light," he said to Colonel Goethals, while all the witnesses, attorneys, and spectators lighted cigars and cigarettes and were ready for a long session.

"I was an old Government employee," began Lawson. "This fellow Brothers came to Washington, and was in a kettle of hot water because he could not get a bond to go with his bid. I fixed the bond. Then he wanted me to go to Panama for him and see that he got a square deal he would give me $6 a week and expenses. And, say, do you know what that fellow did to me? He still owes me $70 on my expense account, and I have never seen 50 cents on salary from him."

Will "Tell the Truth"

"Then anything you say against Mr. Brothers will be due to the fact that you want your pay?" asked Attorney Thomas.

"That's true, but I would give him a chance—I'll tell the truth—though I would not go to New York if I could save his life. I thought he was a fair man, but he is not. He has kicked up all this row and got me in it."

"I went to Panama all right, and was not going to take our machine as a protest and Brothers came to the front with a lot of wild charges. I got the idea that he was going to do something about it, but he was doing all he could to get the best for the Government and that was the policy of the rest of the commissioners—at least I thought so. When we came back to New York I told Brothers that he was in wrong. He did not give me a chance to tell him, but flashes three blank receipts on me and got me to sign them. I did and I'm still looking for the money he promised me."

Lawson in reply to a question of Attorney Thomas, said he had been employed by the army engineers for more than twenty years. He denied that he had attempted to use any influence with the commission in getting the Brothers device installed.

Got "Sore."

"I got sore when I found Brothers was trying to stick Strickler with a direct connection with Hunt & Co. They made a contract with Brothers to help correct some mechanical defects in his machine. I could not see how Strickler was in wrong. He was not."

"Did Brothers tell you that he was short of money?" asked Attorney Thomas.

"He said he had $125,000 tied up in the Helms failure, maybe he did, but I don't know."

After Averill had testified that he had taken up the work for Brothers because he saw a chance to make a fee, Colonel Goethals said he wanted to introduce a cablegram, in which Secretary of War Taft was quoted as saying a rival company of Brothers could have the contract, if no public objections were made.

"I think I have said all I care to say," the colonel said. "We have proven I think that the Government did all in its power to get the best and the charges of Brothers are wild and unfounded. I want to get back to work and will if we can get this matter settled before the 1st of the month."

Attorney Thomas asked that Cole and Donelson be called to tell of alleged letters exchanged between interested parties in the hearing and General Garlington directed that they attend the session, which he insists must be closed by tonight.

order that all school children who desire to do so may have an opportunity of witnessing the notable production. The reason for selling only a limited number of seats this afternoon was the possibility that the play might have to be produced in the National Theater with a capacity of only 2,000. Since the arrangement of the seats has been made, and the acoustics of nature's opera house have been tested, it has been found that the voices of the actors carry far beyond the original seat line, and, in addition, seats will be added tomorrow just as required.

Frederick D. Owens, chairman of the committee for street decorations and civic improvements, volunteered his services to the Playgrounds Association and has had charge this morning of the stage and box decorations and the seating arrangements. A force of men has been busy under the direction until an early hour this afternoon.

Those Who Lent Aid.

In addition to the personal interest evinced in the productions by Mrs. Roosevelt, who tendered the use of the grounds for such purposes for the first time in their history, the play is a committee having direct charge is as follows: Cuno H. Rudolph, chairman; James E. West, vice chairman; Arthur B. Schuman, Jr., secretary; and John B. Schuman, Jr., treasurer. The sale of tickets among school children is in charge of Mrs. Ellen Spencer Mursey, a member of the association and also of the Board of Education.

BLAMES AMERICANS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—That grave irregularities in the American management brought about the failure of the Pillsbury-Washburn Flour Mills Company, Limited, is the charge of the English committee of shareholders made in a circular just issued.

The committee, which is headed by Lord Avebury, invites all shareholders to co-operate with it for the protection of the property.

LILLEY STATEMENT CLOSED INCIDENTSecretary Loeb Denies Letters Had Any Connection With Connecticut Campaign.

The incident of the correspondence between President Roosevelt and Representative George L. Lilley, Republican candidate for governor in Connecticut, is closed so far as the White House is concerned.

Secretary Loeb said today that his letter to N. A. Tanner, of New Haven, Conn., speaks for itself. "This letter was written without any reference whatever to Mr. Lilley's campaign and referred solely to a speech made by Lilley in the House a short time after he had made his charges that submarine legislation should be made the subject of a thorough investigation. At that time the President had a conversation with the Connecticut Representative expressed himself as follows: 'Mr. Lilley, I have read and heartily approve of your speech. You have told a number of needed truths, and I thank you for telling them. I wish you success in your career.'"

Mr. Lilley recently wrote to the President and asked him to put the correspondence in writing, which request the President complied with. Mr. Lilley thereupon sprang the above quoted portion of the letter as a campaign document, with the result that the candidate's political enemies, unable to understand the President's interference in the State campaign, wrote to Washington and asked the President what motive prompted the letter. Mr. Loeb's reply now sets at rest all conjecture in the matter.

Death notices inserted in The Washington Times will, on request, be published in the next issue of The Baltimore News or The Philadelphia Evening Times without further charge.
